

I Can't Stand To Clap My Hands

Keiron Farrow's EP Fast Awake will be released for digital download on May 3rd 2021 and is available for pre-order on Bandcamp now. The lead track is Next Strain.

"Bluesy rock fuelled riffs...nostalgic feel and kickass vibes"
- CatchyTwentyTwoø

Here's what Keiron has to say about it:

It's the most unusual song I've ever written which is why I love it. The basic groove, which I nicked from Slim Harpo, is just samples of me playing for four bars, with vocals and slide guitar over the top. The lyric arrived in full at 5am on a Thursday when I was fast awake. It distills my experiences and some of my feelings about the situation we all currently find ourselves in.

I'm proud of the lyric 'I can't stand to clap my hands' because you can read it two ways. I want to point at the hypocrisy of clapping for the NHS and then slashing their pay; but also if you have long covid then maybe you literally can't stand.

Keiron Farrow is a musician from Northampton currently residing in Kettering. Ask him who he sounds like, he would probably say the illegitimate progeny of Howlin' Wolf, Jack Rose, Lee Mavericks & Charles Mingus, but then he'd probably feel a bit of an idiot.
